

KNOW OF LORIMER JACKPOT BECAUSE HE GAVE $10,000

Bribery Inquiry Witness Quotes Friend of Hines With Whom He Talked on Train.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The $100,000 legislative "jackpot" about which revolve charges affecting the election of Senator Lorimer, figured in the testimony at the opening of today's hearing before the Senate Lorimer committee.

William Burgess, manager and treasurer of an electrical company at Duluth, Minn., testified before the Senate committee that on a train running out of Duluth, about March, 1911, C. F. Wiebe, who is associated in business with Edward Hines, declared to him that "there was a jackpot related to elect Mr. Lorimer. I know what I am talking about, because I subscribed $10,000 to it myself."

Mr. Burgess testified to-day about this conversation.

Mr. Burgess said that he and Wiebe had not met before that day. They began conversing in the smoking car. Burgess said he made a remark about the Lorimer election, which finally led the stranger, whom he said was Wiebe, to remark that Burgess "did not know very much about it."

Shortly after, according to the witness to-day, Wiebe said:

"There was a jackpot for Lorimer's election. I know what I am talking about, because I subscribed $10,000 to it myself."

"Didn't you think it remarkable that a perfect stranger should make a confession of wholesale corruption?" asked Senator Kern.

"I always did. That was the reason I asked you the man was when we got off the train."

On cross-examination Burgess testified that he was acquainted with W. H. Cook of Duluth, whose versions of conversations with Edward Hines have been disputed by Hines. Burgess said he had talked with Cook about coming to Washington to testify, and Cook had merely remarked: "You'll have a hot time."

NEW HOTEL MAN HERE.

Allan Ainslie Comes to Take Charge of the Majestic.

Allan Ainslie, President of the Lenox Hotel Company of Boston, has accepted the post of managing director of the Hotel Majestic, Twenty-second street and Central Park West. Mr. Ainslie managed the Majestic during the years 1898-9. Jacob Rothschild, proprietor and owner, had charge of the hotel up to the time of his death, a few months ago.

The choice of Mr. Ainslie as managing director of the Majestic will bring into the association of hotels in which he is interested the Hotel Lenox of Boston, the Hotel Nassau of Long Beach and the new Hotel Taft at New Haven.

PROUD MR. ZEBRA ANNOUNCES BIRTH OF FIRST CHILD

Only One Ever Born in Captivity, Say the Bronx Zoo Folk.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Zebra have the honor to announce the birth of the first zebra child ever known to have been born in captivity. But, aside from the announcement, Mr. and Mrs. Z. are not so much interested in the latest and most interesting addition to the Bronx Zoo. In fact, the family resents any close inspection of the new arrival, and the curator, Raymond L. Ditmars, doesn't know yet whether the child is a boy or a girl.

The happy event took place at 8 o'clock to-day. About that time Keeper Robinson called "Doc" Blair and told him to run over and tell Dr. Ditmars that the zebra had a child. Zoo folk aware that no such message was ever transmitted before in the history of the world, because all of the other zebras have been born in the exclusive circles of the wild.

The coming of the animal into the world marks the result of a happy zebra marriage. For years the curator tried to mate the male and female of the zebra kind without success. They are shy persons, these zebra folk, and they refused to do any courting around in public. The nearest that Ditmars could ever get to a happy marriage was to get the young man who was steady company for Miss Grant Zebra to stand on the other side of the zebra house and twist his mustache.

They both, belonged to the Grant family, which is a very ultra connection of animal F. V. The members wear a particularly broad stripe and belong to the jungle Four Hundred. Ditmars concluded that there isn't much chance for a youngster to acquire a wife under the limelight and he sent the young folks over to the deer range, where they might linger under the trees, hold hands under the shrubbery and finally get to the point where the sort of furniture that is to go in the flat takes the place of the weather as a topic of conversation.

The scheme worked. All that young Mr. Grant Zebra wanted was a chance. While he was as shy as a country boy at a city dance during the exhibition days, he soon showed over in the deer run that there was some class to him as a suitor, and it was not long before the other animals knew that the Zebra had been happily married and that they were keeping house out on the last station of Deer Run Boulevard.

There is much rejoicing at the Zoo over the advent of the new member of the family. Photographers went early to work to try for a picture of the child, and Ditmars is just as happy over the new member of his family as though his pet snake had told him a fresh joke.

BREAKING LOOSE.
(From the Boston Transcript.)
Jack—Do you smoked only ten cigars on your entire wedding trip—one a day, I suppose?
Tom—No, sir—ten on the last day.

CUMMINS TO BE TRIED BEFORE CHARLES H. HYDE.

District Attorney Flashes Appellate Order Which Postpones Chamberlain's Hearing.

James W. Osborne, an attorney for Charles H. Hyde, under indictment for bribery in connection with the depositing of city funds in the defunct Carnegie Trust Company, appeared with his client before Judge Crain in General Sessions to-day. Mr. Osborne rose to explain that he had come in consequence of an order issued by Justice McCall in the Supreme Court transferring Hyde's case from the Supreme Court Criminal Branch to General Sessions and ordering an immediate trial.

District Attorney Whitman rose and examined in Mr. Osborne's face and handed him a paper. Mr. Osborne read the first three lines and set down suddenly. It was an order from Justice Ingraham of the Appellate Division forbidding the enforcement of Justice McCall's order until an appeal from Justice McCall had been heard by the Appellate Division.

This meant that Hyde's case must be postponed until late fall, and that Mr. Whitman would get the opportunity, which he has eagerly sought, to try Promoter Cummins first.

PREACHER AND SOLDIER STOLE THE POSTAL FUNDS.

William B. Bidwell, Postmaster at Hardenburg, Sent to Prison for Three Months.

William B. Bidwell, a veteran of the civil war, an itinerant preacher as well as a wandering painter and paper-hanger, halted twelve years ago at Hardenburg, Ulster Co., N. Y. He liked the place because he was an ardent trout fisherman and the Beaver Kill was quite handy. Soon "Old Bill" enjoyed the confidence of all the residents, and because of his army record they secured Bidwell's appointment as village postmaster. He was a good story-teller and not by any means a teetotaler.

When, on July 1, Postmaster Bidwell's bond expired and no steps were taken to renew it Inspector James was sent to Hardenburg to go over the postal accounts. He found a shortage of $71. Inspector James communicated with Bidwell's niece, who resides at Walton, N. Y. She declined to assist her uncle. Then Bidwell, who is sixty-eight years old, was arrested and indicted for embezzlement.

When arraigned to-day before Judge Achenbach, in the Criminal Branch of the United States Circuit Court, the disgraced postmaster, acting as his own counsel, entered a plea of guilty. He was sentenced to three months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

GRAND DAD'S DOUGHNUTS

"We named them Grand Dad's as D & C are the only kind he can digest."

Miss Cummings, 11 W. 103d St., N. Y.

D & C SELF-RAISING FLOUR
Dunbar & Co., New York

PRIEST LOCKED OUT OF CHURCH INVOKES ARCHBISHOP'S AID

Aged Father Froehlich Is Not Daunted Even by Fists of Malcontents.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

Although the Roman Catholic Church of St. Stephen of Hungary at No. 450 East Fourteenth street, remained locked against the Rev. John Froehlich, D. D. of South Bend, Ind., its new pastor, to-day, it is likely that Father Froehlich will force the doors of the edifice and take possession in the name of the Archbishop of New York.

Such authority, it was said to-day, may be vested in Father Froehlich as soon as Mr. Lavelle and Archbishop Farley are communicated with. It is also likely that three or four trustees who stirred up a revolt at the church doors yesterday and threatened the priest with bodily harm, may find themselves severely disciplined.

Monsieur Mooney, in charge of the archdiocese in Archbishop Farley's absence, declined to discuss the attack on the priest. He said Monsignor Lavelle will return from his vacation to-day to handle the critical situation.

"Excommunication will follow this attack on Father Froehlich," said Arpad Casewitzky, one of the leading members of the church, who was seen at Father Froehlich's residence.

"The people of the church are not against the new pastor. Of course, they liked Father Kavay and disliked seeing him go, but not more than three or four members of the church will accept the three priests whom the two trustees tried to bring here."

"If these trustees do not remove those locks by night and obey Mr. Mooney's order to recognize the new pastor their excommunication will follow."

About the church all was quiet to-day. None of the parishioners was about and neither of the two trustees could be found. Through members of the parish, who came to his support, Father Froehlich sent word that he would stay and fight.

WOMAN FALLS SIX STORIES.

Antoinette Sefolia, who arrived here ten days ago and went to live with the family of her nephew, Giuseppe Della, on the sixth floor of the tenement-house, No. 441 East Sixteenth street, leaped out of the window early to-day, lost her balance and fell out.

On the second